Art Unit: 1722

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gellert et al.

Gellert et al. disclose an electrically heated nozzle 22 having an external surface with a first heating resistor 80 and a second independent heating resistor 90 each wound around on the external surface where the resistors each have a thermocouple (94 and 96).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1722

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gellert et al.

While Gellert et al. does not disclose locating the resistors in a spiral shaped groove, Gellert et al. in column 1, lines 22-27 teaches locating the resistors via embedding in a spiral groove to be conventional.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to position the resistors in applicant's embodiment using a conventional method as found in column 1, lines 22-27.

Positioning the resistors 80 and 90 either in a side-by-side condition or a superimposed condition would have been obvious in light of In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70 where a shift in location of parts when operation of a device is not otherwise modified.

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gellert et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of EP 750975.

Art Unit: 1722

While Gellert et al. does not disclose locating the resistors in a spiral shaped groove, EP 750,975 teaches locating a resistor 40 in a spiral groove to be conventional. See Fig.1.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to position the resistors of Gellert et al. in a spiral groove as suggested by EP 750,975.

Positioning the resistors 80 and 90 either in a side-by-side condition or a superimposed condition would have been obvious in light of In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70 where a shift in location of parts when operation of a device is not otherwise modified.
